WHEELING, W. VA , MARCH 21 1884.

City Government, New York—the worst governed city in America, if not in the world—is about to take a step in the direction of real municipal reform. The Rosevelt bill, which the legislature parred and the Governor signed, against the protests and threats of Tammany, takes from that huckster shop, the Board of A'dermen, all power over the Mayor's appointmen' . Only those who have lived under the government of the Alderman, or have inti-mate knowledge of its manifold abuser, mate knowledge of its manifold abuser, can appreciate the value of this single reform. But Governer Cleveland is bitterly idenounced by the politicians of his party denounced by the politicians of his party other set pattern worked in silks of mingled in New York City. John Kelly sulks—it colors. One imported costume designed is a hard blow to him. His followers say for afterneon at the see there is made of all mondecolors. Franch, each mere over a that the Governor has signed his politi-cal death warrant. The "machine" is terribly jarred; and all because a law has been passed which allows the Mayor to make his a pointments without the advice and consent of the A'dern en-patronage peddle:3 who live by dickering for spoils. It is even declared that the new law in not Democratic in principle -prenumably because it was fathered by a Republican and is in the direction of reform. Even with this law much remains to be done before New York can be well governed. The Mayor is not yet given the power ed. The Mayor is not yet given the power of removal, which by all means he ought to have if he is to be held responsible for officers of his own appointment and those appointed by his predecesors. In fact the Mayor of a city, whether New York or Wheeling, ought to be in fact its exective arm. For its own city the New York Ecening Post demands "the election by universal suffrage of a single executive head, vested with absolute power of appointment, and held responsible for its exercise." There is no other right way to conduct a city government.

General Temba at Home.

Correspondence Philadelphia Times.

"The house of Gen. Robert Tombs, in Washington, Ga., is a typical Southern home; a beautiful flower garden of an acre, flanked by barley loty, front's a three story wooden house, with large chambers, with halls, and roomy piazzes. The General's office is in the dwelling, but he generally receives his company in the cozy sitting on the second story. He is always cordial, and gives all, friend or stranger, a kindly welsome. Sitting in a large armchair, with his books within easy reach and the well-used Bible among them, he eat the lest of the old line. He is 74, and he is broken considerably since the death of his wife, but is still a vigorous old man. The General her long been a Methodist in conviction, but only recently has he become a communicut of the church. His determination to connect himself with the church was expre-zed in his usual style. Meeting his old friend, Bishop Plerce, one day, kesaid: "Goorge, I want you to baptise me. I have no religion, but I am afraid some of there young fools who prate about infidelity will a made all things ready for both worlds, and it matters little with him how soon he leaves this.

Boston Journal.

A St. Albans, Vt., young man her recently proved himself equal to an emergancy in disposing of a threatened breach of promise er ue—or something of a similar nature. Soon after the young man's marriage intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the image intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the image intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the image intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the image intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the image intentions were published in church, a girl who thought she had a right to interplate in the state of the discrete in his marriage with another, on the ground of alleged previous promises made to her, interviewed the priest and reheatsed the young man's conduct toward her. When the day fixed for the wedding arrived, the clergyman refused to tie the knot until some satisfactory arrangement had been made and the lacearted feelings of girl number one duly attended to.

Whereupon the young man second did not seem to the strength to the system, to prevent the return of the distress, and Mr. Elissovih temsiants of the distress, and Mr. Elissovih the size of the distress, and Mr. Elissovih the staturn of the distress, and Mr. Elissovi had been made and the lacerated feelings of girl number one duly attended to Whereupon the young man escorted girl number two to her home and proceeded to the abode of number one. There he suggested that as number one objected to number two, she might go with him to the church and marry him herself. This proposition was duly rejected; and, 2s 'number one objected to number two all prejected; and, 2s' number one objected to number two all prejected; and, 2s' number one objected to number two all prejected; and, 2s' number one objected to number two all prejected; and, 2s' number one objected to number one objected to number two all prejected; and, 2s' number of number one objected to number one objected interfering with the young man's marital intentions, he returned to number two, es-corted her to the church and married her that this mode of procedure, while it may not be particularly encouraging to "number two," is ant to squelch most thoroughly any fear of objection on the part of "number one."

FARMION NOTES.

New York Post. Round-crown "Terry" turbane are in the list of new spring hals. The close English coiffure still prevails. Rur et brown is preferable to gray for bride's traveling dresses.

Jet embroidered Jerseys will be very fashionably worn this spring over jet trim-med skirls, and apron tunics of black gros-grain silk.

Adjustable trains for evening toile'; are some of them made with a Watteau fold, carried from the drapings of the long skirt to the back of the neck of the bodice. They are festened to the dress and corsege by means of the new patent safety hooks.

We answer Yes to the "New England Lessie" who write to inquire if it would do to wear a stylish tweed tailor made costume to church when she comes to New York to visit. If she imagines that every lady who attends service in New York is accessed to the property of the less than the property of the lines o arrayed in purple and fine linen, she will find out to the contrary when she arrives nond-colored French cashmere over a skirt of dark plum-colored velvet. The long apron overdress and bodies are covered with dark plum-colored flowers in detached sprays appliqued at intervals over the entire surface.

Very stylish looking promenade costumes are shown made of olive or lawn green bison cloth or French tricot, elegant in fit and finish, the skirts pleated in flat kilts, alternating with eight inch wide panels. Above the full Buckingham tunic is worn a long French Guard coat with a narrow Directoire vest of dark green velvet inserted down the front, fratened with gold buttons, and trimmed with dark green braiting in arabesque designs. A similar pattern is worked upon the panels of the skirt. An exquisite dreat made by Redfern has cise. There is no other right way to conduct a city government.

State and National Government has engrossed the attention of the people to the neglect of local government, which in so ne essential respect i is of much more importance. The people seem to be realizing their neglect, and there are signs of an aspiration for somothing better.

"Ice is becoming so rare a thing to the Londoner," rays the St. James Gazette, "that except in the form of ice puddings and other devices of the pertry cook, he hardly ever sees it. Once in every three or four years he gets a few days' skating."

A Miracle.

Whenever there is an extraordinary occurrence—a team runs over a child without hurting it; a mechanic falls from a third-story window, and in a week after he is at work again, we are wont to erciaim, "what a miracle!" So, when Misa T. S. Erashing, then of Allegheny City, Pa., had been sick with Consumption for a very long time, had been told by several of the best physicians of that city that her time was but for a few hours, that she must die, and when the use of but one bottle of Prama in a week's time placed her on her feet again and made her the keartiest eater in the iamily, all the peoples around, as with one rejoicing voice, exclaimed: "What a wonderful miracle!"
